

COMMITTEE TO GO TO WASHINGTON ON WATERPOWERS

La Follette, Wilson and Other "Chiefs" to Assist in Framing Wisconsin Law

A BIG BOOST FOR PASSAGE

Effect of O. K. by Country's Biggest Men Expected to Be Strong on Members of Legislature

INTERESTS ARE FIGHTING BILL

For Several Sessions They Wage Uncompromising War on Attempt to Save Resources for People

(By Joseph K. Kidder)

MADISON, Wis., June 23.—The special senate committee on conservation that has in charge the framing of the waterpower bill, one of the most important measures of the session, will leave for Washington tomorrow for a conference with Senator Robert M.
La Follette, Louis Brandeis, Joseph E. Davies, commissioner of corporation; William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce and labor and possibly President Wilson.

The Wisconsin committee is composed of Senators Paul O. Husting, Mayville, chairman; A. Pearce Tomkins, Ashland; Otto Bosshard, La Crosse.

The pending Wisconsin waterpower law, it is understood, will be gone over thoroughly by this group of men in an effort to so frame it that it will, in a measure, meet some of the objections of the immense interests that are fighting it in Madison and at the same time be so fortified as to save for the people of Wisconsin their great and immensely valuable natural resources.

Secretary Redfield, one of the gentlemen to be conferred with, is one of the best posted men in the country on water power matters. For years he was the general counsel for the General Electric company. Mr.
Louis Brandeis, known as the "People's Lawyer," is an expert on corporation law and is the man who, in a recent government suit, proved conclusively that the railroads of the United States are wasting $2,000,- 000 a day in operating expenses. He also is the man who defended Glavis at the time he was ousted by Secretary of the Interior Ballinger.

No explanation is necessary of the part Senator La Follette will play in the conference. It was back in the old days of "Bob's" gubernatorial work that the conservation idea was conceived. The law is of interest to Joseph E. Davies, himself a Wisconsin man, for the legislation planned is along lines of special interest to him as national commissioner of corporations. President Wilson will undoubtedly be interested because of his general views on conservation.

The value of this non-partisan conference is two-fold. It is pointed out that not only will the committee get ideas to make the law the best possible but the effect of an O. K. by such an aggregation of national notables will be great on those members of this legislature that show a tendency to lend a friendly ear to the pleas of the waterpower interests.

The waterpower interests at the state capital have been conducting an uncompromising fight for their

TREE AFFINITY FOR LONESOME

CHICAGO, June 23.—Feel lonely? Then go out in the woods and commune with your tree affinity. Somewhere in the forest or in the park, a gigantic oak, a hickory or a weeping willow is sighing for you—his soul mate.

The theosophy class of Miss Julia K. Sommer started out today to experiment with tree magnetism and its relation to the human soul. Every person, according to Miss Sommer, has a tree affinity that emits radiations of vitality harmonious with those sent out by that person.

"Trees have their likes and dislikes," said Miss Sommer.
"Some persons please them and others irritate. Of course it takes a degree of sensitiveness for a person to understand a tree, but it can be done."

TO INVESTIGATE VIADUCT PROBLEM

State Railroad Commissioner and Engineers to Visit La Crosse This Week

MAY REAPPORTION THE EXPENSE

Proposed Tunnel Under Tracks at Rose Street Crossing Will Be Discussed

John H. Roemer, member of the state railroad commission, together with one of the commission engineers and an engineer of the Chicago, St. Paul and Milwaukee railroad company, will come to LaCrosse some time this week to attempt to find a solution to the Rose street viaduct crossing problem, according to word received by Attorney J. E.
Higbee today. The Rose street viaduct has been closed to traffic for more than a month at the order of the railroad commission pending the investigation which will be held this week. The closing of the bridge has caused considerable inconvenience to the north side and several protests have been made to the common council.

The question of apportionment of the costs of building the crossing and the style of crossing, either viaduct or tunnel, will be considered by the visiting engineers and Mr.
Roemer. It is the city's contention that the last order providing for a viaduct, the expense of constructing which was to be shared by the railroad company and the city without taxing the street car company more than the cost of reconstructing Mill street after the removal of its tracks to Rose street, was unjust. An appeal to the commission for a more equitable apportionment of the expense and for an investigation of the feasibility of tunneling under the tracks instead of building a viaduct resulted in the order for the investigation which will be held here this week.

The common council committee on bridges will meet Wednesday evening.

SHORT CHANGE MEN PAY SMALL FINES

Chicago Boys' Escape Costs Them $165; Swindled Country Saloons

John Moffat and Harry Miller, both of Chicago, today pleaded guilty to short changing John Stephan, proprietor of the five mile house on the Mormon Coulee road, out of ten dollars last Tuesday, and were fined $10 and costs each by Judge John Brindley in county court today. The young men's escapade cost them in fines, costs and lawyers' fees about $165.

The third man in the party, whose name the other two give as John O'Brien of Chicago, escaped from Marshal Erickson when the other two were arrested at Chaseburg the day of the swindling of John Stephan.
According to the story told the police by Moffat and Miller they had come to La Crosse from Chicago in an automobile with O'Brien, who planned to run a raffle at the carnival here this week but that when they learned of the police order against gambling devices they decided to "pick up a little easy money," working some of the country saloons.

Miller's mother came here from Chicago to attend the trial. According to her statement this is the first time either one of the young men has been in trouble.

PRINTS ON WALL REVEAL BURGLAR

Marks of Crippled Hands Show Police How Pool Room Was Entered

SURRENDERS AND CONFESSES

Culprit Proves to Be Waukon Youth Formerly a Student in Business College

"The handwriting on the wall" proved literally to be the undoing of James Hanley, of Waukon, Iowa, until recently a student at a local business college, when he was arrested Saturday for robbing the cash drawer of the National Pool hall, Sixth and Main streets, Friday night.

Hanley is a cripple, having but two fingers on each hand. The peculiar two fingered imprints found on the wall where he had pulled himself through the transom or ventilator were the means of connecting Hanley with the crime. Hearing that the police were looking for him he went to central station Saturday and gave himself up, confessing that he had committed the burglary.

The pool room was entered by means of a ventilator over the back door about midnight Friday. Fifty-one dollars were stolen from the cash box. According to a statement made by the police today Hanley said that as soon as he had rifled the pool room till he caught the midnight train for Milwaukee. He said that he stayed there but a few hours coming back the next morning. He made the trip to Milwaukee in the hope of establishing an alibi. All of the money except $16 which he had spent, was found on him when he gave himself up.

Hanley will be arraigned in county court on a charge of burglary probably tomorrow. The penalty for burglary in the night is from three to ten years in the state penitentiary. Hanley is but 19 years of age and up to the time of his arrest has borne a good reputation. He is an orphan but the police have communicated with other relatives who will probably come here to attend trial.

BAD CHECK PASSER IS QUICKLY CAUGHT

Just twenty minutes after he had cashed a worthless check at the Linker barber shop this afternoon, John O'Brien, of St. Paul, was cooling his heels in central police station. The check was drawn on the National bank of La Crosse for ten dollars. As soon as it was presented at the bank and it was found that it was worthless, Mr. Linker telephoned a description of the man to the police station. Detective Wm.
Fitzsimmons was notified by the police signal at Fourth and Main streets and about five minutes afterwards located him in a Fourth street saloon. O'Brien admitted his guilt. He secured the blank check at a saloon near the barber shop and attempted to cash it at this saloon but was refused the money.

MRS. ANNE SAMUELS DIES IN MINNEAPOLIS

Mrs. Anne Samuels, 76, a former resident of this city, died at the home of her children in Minneapolis Sunday night at 11 o'clock. She had been an invalid for a year, and had been seriously ill for the last few weeks. Mrs. Samuels' husband, David Samuels, is a former well known resident of this city and of Barre, Wis.

Surviving relatives in this city are Mrs. W. R. Montague, Mrs. D.
G. McMillan, and Elmer Samuels, of West Salem. The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon in the mausoleum chapel at Oak Grove cemetery. Burial will be made in the mausoleum.

MARTIN EXEL IS DEAD AT HOME

Martin Exel, Sr., died at his home, 408 Jackson street, at 10:15 this morning, after an illness of two weeks. Death was caused by Bright's disease. Mr. Exel was born in Baden, Germany, April 5, 1843, coming to this country when a young man, and settling in Wisconsin. He was one of the oldest members of the Frohmann Singing society, and an active member of the Concordia society. Surviving him is his wife and sons and four daughters. The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at the residence at 2:30. Rev. Henry Andreas will officiate. Interment will be made in Oak Grove cemetery.

25,000 FAVOR STRIKE

CHICAGO, June 23.—Sentiment of 25,000 garment workers is overwhelmingly in favor of a strike, according to labor leaders who today completed a canvass of the ballot taken last week.

The executive council of the Garment Workers' union will meet tonight to determine whether the walk out is to be ordered at once, or whether other attempts at negotiations shall be made.

BLACK ASKS QUIET WHEN IN THE PEN

CHICAGO, June 23.—Jack Johnson, black pugilist, under sentence of one year in the Joliet, Ill., prison for white slavery, wants the world to know as little as possible of what happens to him when he gets behind the bars.

This was the reason given by some of the negro's friends who accompanied him into court today when his attorney petitioned Federal Judge Carpenter to change the sentence to the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., instead of Joliet. Johnson feared that he would be too close to Chicago to escape unpleasant notoriety.
At the same time counsel for the negro filed an appeal.

EXECUTE SCORE AS ASSASSINS

Twenty Killed in Constantinople for Assassination of Shevket Pasha

ALLEGED THEY WERE RING LEADERS

Men Tried by Court Martial and Convicted for Conspiracy

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 23.—

Twenty men were executed today in rapid succession for the assassination two weeks ago of Mahmud Shevket Pasha, grand vizier of Turkey. Witnesses to the killing of the grand vizier said that two men fired the shots at Mahmud Shevket Pasha, and Ibrahim Bey, his aide, who was also killed, but the police and soldiers made wholesale arrests for conspiracy and the twenty men executed were charged with being ring leaders. They were tried by court martial and convicted yesterday.

BLOCKS ALASKA BILL

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Consideration of the Alaskan government railroad bill was blocked in the senate today by objection of Senator O'- rourke, who insisted he was against all forms of government ownership of carriers. Senator Chamberlain argued vainly against side tracking the measure but it went to the calendar.

WILSON TO PROBE M'NAB RESIGNATION

Development of Diggs-Caminetti Case Arouses a Stir at the Capital

WASHINGTON, June 23.—President Wilson intends to make a careful personal investigation of the circumstances growing out of the resignation of John L. McNab as federal attorney for the San Francisco district. He stated today that he had called for all of the papers in the case.

The fact that Secretary of Labor Wilson has taken on his shoulders the responsibility for the postponement of the trials of Drew Caminetti and Maurice I. Driggs, charged with violating the white slave law, because he wanted Caminetti's father to come here and familiarize himself with the duties of commissioner general of immigration, to which he had just been appointed, has caused the president to take a decided interest in the whole controversy.

MADISON PASTOR TALKS EDUCATION

Rev. E. G. Updike Delivers Baccalaureate Sermon at the Normal

POINTS NEED OF COMMON SENSE

Says Business World Offers Opportunity to Obtain Trained Ability to Think

Rev. E. G. Updike, of Madison, delivered the baccalaureate sermon at the normal school yesterday and gave an eloquent discussion of the problems of property, of material and spiritual ownership. "Education," he said, "is a means by which man enriches his spiritual ownership, and with the development of scientific spirit has come the great advance in modern ways of thinking.
The inductive method of reasoning has revolutionized the thinking of the world during the last twenty years."

"At no time," Rev. Updike continued, "is there greater need for common sense in leadership than the present, and mental integrity and honesty are prerequisites. The business world offers exceptional opportunities for obtaining a trained ability to think."

The speaker decried the philosophy which teaches that there is no moral order in the world. The United States, he said, is a Christian nation and every state is a Christian state. Any system of education which destroyed any of the finer instincts is wrong. If there was no moral order, he said, it would be folly to send men throughout the state in the extension courses of the university lecturing on ethics. It would pay better to send so many phonographs.
Rev. Updike declared.

Musical numbers for the baccalaureate services were furnished by the La Crosse Musical club quartet and Miss Harriet B. Oltman.

MUCH GOSSIP BUT NOT ANY EVIDENCE

The case against John Friesmuth, the gardener living on the Salem road near the city limits on the north side, accused of hitting his twelve year old son Frank to a cultivator and working him like a horse, was dismissed by Judge John Brindley in county court Friday. The complaint was made by County Poor Commissioner Sol Burdick after several neighbors had complained to him. These neighbors failed to back up their complaints at the trial and Friesmuth was cleared of all blame.
The boy told the court that pulling the cultivator was more fun than work.

G. M. WOODWARD HIT BY MOTOR CAR

Attorney G. M. Woodward narrowly escaped serious injury at 2:30 this afternoon, when he was struck by a Ford automobile.

A street car was discharging passengers at Fifth and Main streets.
The auto, coming north on Fifth street, turned the corner west on Main before the car had resumed its progress.

A short stop by the driver, who is unknown, and the presence of a bumper on the car saved the La Crosse attorney. Beyond a jolt and the unusual experience of riding several feet on the fender of an auto Mr. Woodward is uninjured.

DISCUSS METAL RATES

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Discussion of the metal schedule consumed today's program of the senate democratic caucus on the tariff bill. A big fight developed over the question of placing hand saws on the free list. Fifteen minor senate amendments were approved.

SNAKE IN BED KILLS CHILDREN

BEACH, N. D., June 23.— Two children were killed by a rattlesnake which had become concealed in the bed-clothing at the home of Dave Grant, fourteen miles southeast of here, Saturday night, it became known today.

During the day the bed clothing had been lying in the grass for an airing. The children, aged 5 and 7, were put to bed by their mother and within a few minutes began fighting among themselves, each accusing the other of "pinching."

The mother visited the room, tucked the clothing about the children and retired for the night.

The next morning both children were found dead and the snake lying between them.

HAVE EPIDEMIC OF MERCURY POISONING

Chicago Doctors Urge the Authorities to Limit the Sale of Bichloride Tablets

TWO DIE WITHIN THE HOUR

Third Near Death and Two More Struggle for Life in Pittsburgh

CHICAGO, June 23.—Physicians today voiced a demand that city authorities take quick action to place restrictions on the sale of bichloride of mercury tablets. Two young girls have died in Chicago within twenty-four hours after swallowing the drug, and a third was rushed to the county hospital early today with but little hope of her recovery. Medical men fear an epidemic of suicide by the bichloride route since public interest became centered about the case of B. Sanders Walker, the Macon, Ga., banker.

Die Within Hour
Within an hour after Lillian Silverman became a corpse, having taken the tablets accidentally, Ruby Dale Muslemann, 20, died from the same cause. She swallowed twenty-four tablets because she lost her position.

The latest victim of the poison is Mrs. Mamie Henning, 21, who swallowed four tablets after a quarrel with her husband. Physicians say she will die.

Two in Pittsburgh PITTSBURGH, June 23.—While Anna Butler and Kathryn Burns, 17 year old girls, were today fighting for life against bichloride of mercury, taken in a suicide pact, a director of public safety, John H. Dalley, and Coroner Jamison planned formal investigation of the charges leading to the arrest of Patrolman Leo J. Kennelly and W. J. Lavery and Mrs. Cora Dickson.

Director Dalley today promised a thorough probe of the story that the two patrolmen and the woman arrested were involved in the two day disappearance of the girls, explanation of which led them to form the suicide pact.

EIGHT DROWN WHEN U. S. BOAT TURTLES

Government Survey Boat Capsizes in the Mississippi Above Memphis

NEW MADRID, Mo., June 23.— Search was being made today for the bodies of eight members of a party of United States army engineers who were drowned when the United States survey boat Beaver capsized in a windstorm four miles above this city late yesterday. The body of C. S.
Williamson, engineer; Mason, Ohio, the ninth victim, was washed up by the waves. The missing men are:

Phil Wray, Jackson, Tenn.; A. D.
Coston, engineer; J. M. McConnell, Memphis, Tenn., graduate of the Cornell university law college; Harry Sherrell, mate, Cottonwood, Tenn.; captain Lamb, pilot; Freeman, deckhand; two rodmen, not identified.

last Friday, enroute to Snake Bend, in the Mississippi near here, where a government survey was to be made.
A severe squall overturned the boat in the middle of the river. The steamer Chiska saved five members of the party found clinging to bits of wreckage.

SENATE O. K.'S NAMES

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The senate this afternoon confirmed the following nominations:

Cornelius Ford of New Jersey, to be public printer; John S. Hunter, receiver public moneys, Montgomery, Ala.; Wade H. Fowler, register land office, Douglas, Wyo.; E. A. Earhuff,

PRESIDENT TELLS CONGRESSMEN OF CURRENCY NEEDS

For Second Time Wilson in Person Reads Message to Assembled Legislators

URGES PASS OF REFORM BILL

Tariff Necessary He Says but Correct Banking Sys-of the People

NO NERVOUSNESS VISIBLE TODAY

President Motors to Capital and Is Escorted to Desk by Committee of Solons

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Congress heard from President Wilson again today. For the second time the executive told the members in joint assembly what he considered their duty to the nation. And, as on the occasion of his first appearance on this mission the president told his hearers that their personal feelings had no bearing on the case; that the country demanded action on currency reform, and that the emergency was so great that on congress today rested the responsibility of success or failure of the nation's business during the coming four years.

Tool of Action
The tariff bill will set the people free, the president asserted, but without the tools of action the business interests will be unable to take advantage of wonderfully increased opportunity. And there was no question from his earnestness of manner, that the speaker realized that the place in history of his administration may depend on the outcome of the struggle begun today.

There was little difference between today's proceedings and those of several weeks ago when the president, throwing precedent to the wind, read his tariff message in person. There was the same crowd in the galleries, the same formal entry into the house chamber of the senate. But there was a decided change in the manner of the executive. He was more confident. The slight appearance of nervousness that marked him then was absent today.

The president came down from the white house in his automobile accompanied by his secretary, and proceeded at once to the room of Speaker Clark to wait for the committee that was to escort him to the speaker's stand.

It was exactly 12:30 when the members of the senate, with Vice President Marshall and preceded by Sergeant-at-Arms Higgins, entered the house chamber. The representatives stood in their places, as the members of the upper house filed slowly down the aisles and took the seats reserved for them in two front rows.

Committee Escorts

The following committee was named to escort the president to the speaker's desk: Senators Kern, Reed and Gallinger, and Representatives Underwood, Fitzgerald and Mann.

It was 12:02 p. m. when the president ended his address, and as he bowed his farewell, he was warmly greeted. The applause started on the democratic side but was joined in importantly by the republicans.

The president today wore formal afternoon dress, the long black frock coat and striped trousers being in decided contrast to his usual gray summer garb. Two minutes after he departed, the senate had filed out and the house had adjourned until tomorrow.

The administration currency bill will be introduced simultaneously late this week in both the senate and house, it was announced today.

The Message

Mr. Speaker, Mr. President, Gentlemen of the Congress:

It is under the compulsion of what seems to me a clear and imperative duty that I have a second time this session sought the privilege of addressing you in person. I know, of course, that the heated season of the year is upon us, that work in these chambers and in the committee rooms is likely to become a burden as the season lengthens, and that every consideration of personal convenience and personal comfort, perhaps, in the cases of some of us, considerations of personal health even, dictate an early conclusion of the deliberations of the session; but there are occasions of public duty when these things which touch us privately seem very small; when the work to be done is so pressing and so fraught with big consequence that we know that we are not at liberty to weigh against it any point of personal sacrifice. We are now in the presence of such an occasion. It is absolutely imperative that we should give the business men of this country a banking and currency system by means of which they can make use of the freedom of enterprise and of individual initiative which we are about to bestow upon them.

We are about to set them free; we must not leave them without the tools of action when they are free.

AVIATOR DESCRIBES 1,625 FOOT DROP

Nerves of Navy Airman Shattered by Death of His Friend and Passenger

CLUNG TO PLANE FOR SAFETY

Held to Upright as Machine Somersaulted Into Chesapeake Bay

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 23.—After a fall such as no man has ever made and lived to tell the tale, Lieutenant J. H. Tower had recovered sufficiently to describe how he dropped 1,625 feet. His nerves are shattered and the death of his passenger, Ensign William D. Billingsley, whose body has not been recovered, only adds to his serious condition. Tower's story of his 1,625 feet drop is:

Gust From Below
"Just before the accident, I looked at the altitude dial and it showed that we were running at a height of about 1,625 feet. Just then a gust of wind seemed to come up from below. It struck the aeroplane underneath the rear planes and the machine lurched violently and took an uncertain dive forward. This threw Billingsley across the steering gear and the lateral rudder planes went out of business. With another forward plunge the biplane dropped down at express train speed.

"It all happened in a minute. Billingsley went out of his seat and clear of the plane. When the ship started to fall I had one hand around the upright, between the planes and I looked it there. I knew it was my only hope.

"I was torn loose from the seat, but held onto the upright. I swung clear of the planes and the gearing. The strain on my arms and fingers was awful, but I clenched my teeth and held on. I tried to kick the steering gear back into working order, but I couldn't make it go. I looked down and saw Billingsley turning over and over in the air.

Turns Somersault
"When the aeroplane had dropped about 900 feet the front planes went down and under until the ship had turned a complete somersault. When it was half way over it steadied for a minute and the force of the fall was broken a little, but it gathered momentum again and when it hit the water there was a terrific crash. But I kept clear of the engine and plane and managed to come to the surface safely.

At the hospital Lieut. Towers is listed as "slightly injured internally," but the surgeons were in doubt as to the exact extent of his injuries. He suffered terribly from the shock.

Talking Shop.
Enthusiastic interest in one's occupation is always an advantage, but, on the other hand, it is not well for a woman in business to talk of her work at all times and places. Naturally, the thing that we do constantly is our most absorbing interest, but we must remember that other people have other things to talk about.

Gross Carelessness.
"Bill's going to sue the company for damages." "Why, what did they do to him?" "They blew the quitten' whistle when 'e was carryin' a 'eavy piece of iron, and 'e dropt it on 'is foot."—Everybody's Magazine.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

PLAYING LADY

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Mary Ellen sat upon the knoll at the foot of her father's tiny garden and gazed wistfully at the big house at the top of the hill. Silent and deserted it stood month after month in lonely beauty. It was beautiful, both within and without—Mary Ellen knew that because her parents were the caretakers and on one never-to-be-forgotten occasion she had spent a long day roaming about the stately interior.

With Mary's home coming from boarding school had come the wild flowers and the scent of spring. She fell to wondering, with her rounded chin buried in the palm of her hand, how any one could keep away so long from the beautiful home on the hill.

Mary Ellen was a child of fancy and out in the wilds of the country her dreams held full sway. She was beautiful, and her hair still hung in a great copper mass confined only by a bow of orange ribbon; her eyes were wide and heavy lidded and her lips were usually curved in a peculiar wistful smile.

"Why can I not dwell in the big house?" she questioned herself. "I would be as quiet as a mouse and love everything in it."

For a long moment Mary Ellen pondered. A flush stole into her cheeks and her eyes became great stars. In the recess of her fancy-filled brain a thought, prompted by her love of the beautiful, grew into mammoth proportion.

"Why should I not?" she whispered to the wilderness. "No one would ever know and I can slip away every day for a few hours."

No sooner was her thought complete than Mary Ellen was off through the woodland path like a deer. Her light footfall seemed scarcely to disturb the mossy grass and when she finished her swift run she stood beneath the balcony windows of the great house on the hill. The rich clusters of honeysuckle seemed to reach down in all their fragrance and draw her up into their close embrace.

"Poor, lonely, dear house," she whispered into the vines and scrambled into the midst of them. Her footing was firm and when she reached the low window she made her entrance head first through the casement.

"Oh-h," gasped Mary Ellen out of pure joy. "How thankful I am that papa forgot to lock windows!" She drew a long breath of contentment while her eyes lingered on the luxuriously furnished drawing room which she had entered. Very lightly she tripped across the velvet carpets and peered into the halls.

"I won't dare have a fire in any of the grates," sighed Mary Ellen, "because papa would see the smoke." She went up the wide oak stairway and stood for a moment wondering which of the many boudoirs she would visit first.

Mary Ellen sighed ecstatically and clasped her hand in complete happiness. Her beauty-loving soul was satisfied and her fanciful nature expanded and found itself longing to express in some way the wonderful things in life.

Perhaps something within told Mary Ellen that with her stepping over the threshold of those many doors she was also stepping into a world where her undeveloped dreams might find expression, consummation. She was retiring from the material vagueness of childhood to the reality and wonderment of womanhood.

With little snatches of lilting melody bubbling from her lips, she ran lightly from room to room too joyous and excited to remain stationary for more than a second. Not for a moment did she fear that entering another's house might bring punishment in its wake. The lonely old house had for many years beckoned to her and now she had come, as it were, into its waiting arms. In the vividness of her imagination Mary Ellen believed that the very walls and ceilings were echoing her song.

She peered up the narrow stairway that led to the attic and soon found herself in the tiny turret room that commanded a view that made even Mary Ellen, child of nature that she was, draw a breath of admiration.

Great rolling hills stretched far away into the mists of distance and on every side stately cedars were garrisoned with their bayonet tips gleaming in the fresh sunlight. A pool was dotted here and there.

Once again Mary Ellen felt that vague stirring within her. "I want to sing and dance—and cry, all at the same time," she told that wonderful view and turned from it to inspect the big cedar chest beneath the vista window.

"Whoever leaves this house for so long at a time," thought Mary, "has a most unsuspicious mind. Nothing is locked."

She knelt and drew a breath of delight as she opened the chest. It was filled to the brim with exquisite costumes. Fabrics as dainty as a cobweb were there and Mary Ellen handled them all with caressing fingers.

She glanced up quickly from her new found treasure then back again. With a quick little gesture of freedom she flung off the print gown she wore and delved into the chest for the gown of sunset gold that she had seen.

Suddenly, it seemed to Mary Ellen that the attic room was occupied by another. She did not know that she was even then arrayed in the costume of a great actress; that the cosmetics, the flowers, the foot-lights and the homage done a great artist were all embodied there and they were going to find a new habitation in the person of Mary Ellen. She only knew that she was happier than she had ever been before and that some new strange power was taking complete possession of her.

She twisted her mass of coppery hair into a knot and with the aid of a couple of exquisite amber pins secured it at the nape of her neck. Unconsciously her nostrils expanded to the pungent odor of cosmetics and the lingering scent of perfumes that the costumes exhaled.

A few moments later Mary Ellen sank with a little flutter of breathless contentment into the big davenport in the drawing room.

The book she had taken from the case was a volume of Shakespeare. While she read that presence again hovered over her and Mary Ellen's dreams became pregnant with the inspirations, the longings and the powers of a great actress. She seemed vested with the spirit of an artist. Mary Ellen became lost in the characters of Rosalind, Portia, Ophelia and Juliet.

After that one perfect hour the girl lived only when she was in the big house. She stole away quietly even at dark hours of the night and became the ladies of Shakespeare rehearsing the parts aloud and growing each day in her power of expression. Even then Mary Ellen scarcely realized where her love of fancy was leading her. She did not know that events were shaping themselves for the appearing of another great actress nor that the sudden opening of a window on the ground floor meant the entering into her life of a great hero.

She was Ophelia that evening and her copper hair hung below her waist and a tangle of flowers crowned it. The soft whiteness of her gown brought out the brilliant luster of her eyes and when young Willet Kayne opened the door of the drawing room suddenly he fell back.

Mary Ellen did the proper thing and fell headlong to the floor.

With a bound Kayne was kneeling beside her and holding her in his arms. He brushed back the heavy mass of hair.

"You are not a ghost then?" he said when she opened her eyes.

Mary Ellen smiled and drew herself away from the intruder. "No," she said wistfully, "I was only playing lady—will I have to stop? I suppose you are the master."

"You will not have to stop anything that gives you a moment's pleasure," Kayne told her, scarcely knowing what he was expressing. "I am Willet Kayne, the Shakespearean actor, and this is my grandmother's home—yes, perhaps I am the master, but you—"

"I—I am just Mary Ellen." She paused for a breathless moment while under the ardent gaze of Kayne; her heavy lids fluttered down lest he witness the coming of dreams into their depths.

Bringing the Circus Home
With Them.

THE circus was coming to town, and Jack and Evelyn were teasing daddy to take them to see its wonders.

"Perhaps if you are very good I may take you some day," he promised.

"We try to be good," Jack said. It was Jack who usually got into scrapes.

"We have been good for a long time, daddy," Evelyn urged.

"Yes; I haven't done a thing since the day I broke the pink geranium playing ball in the garden," Jack added.

"I'm afraid most people are naughty because they don't think," daddy said kindly. "And as to the circus, I hope it won't affect you as it did the little Brown children."

"They had never been to a circus—no, not once—when a beautiful big one came to town."

"The children spoke to Daddy Brown after the big colored posters were put up on all the fences in town, and Daddy Brown said that if they were very good he would take them to see the circus, and they were very, very good."

"When the day for their visit to the show arrived they started off as happy a little party of Browns as you would wish to see."

"They had a lovely time. They saw all the queer wild animals in their cages, and when it was time for the performance they went in and sat down and listened to the clown as he made jokes to fill in the time between acts."

"Dear, dear, was there ever a more gorgeous circus? The Browns thought not. They did not see how any one could be funnier than the clown or cleverer than the riders or acrobats, who climbed about on poles or balanced themselves on bars hung from the roof of the tent."

"The Brown children went home in raptures, and their dreams that night were all about the circus. Patty Brown dreamed that she was a lovely circus lady in a pink tulle skirt riding a beautiful white pony. Johnny dreamed that he was stepping gracefully along a high tight rope. Dolly dreamed that she was a mermaid clad in a green scaly bathing suit and diving deep into a glass tank. Jimmie Brown dreamed that he was a Japanese acrobat and could tie himself up into all sorts of knots."

"The next morning when they got up they hurried through breakfast so that they could go out and practice. They thought of starting a circus of their own. No; they never started that circus, for Johnny sprained his ankle badly falling from the clothesline while trying to practice as a tight rope walker, and after the doctor had fixed him up Mrs. Brown said that there should be no more practicing and no more circus in that house. And this year the Browns' daddy won't take them to the circus."

This pure food-drink, sold by grocers everywhere, is warranted pure and absolutely free from the coffee drug, caffeine. It feeds and nourishes where coffee destroys the tissues.

Instant Postum is made of prime wheat and the juice of sugar-cane, roasted and blended to produce a flavour much resembling high-grade Java.

A level teaspoonful of Instant Postum in an ordinary cup of hot water dissolves instantly, and makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular Postum (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of water.

EXPERTS VALUE THE HIXON ENTERPRISE

"Our valued contemporary, the Commercial West, rightly estimates the act of Frank Hixon, banker and philanthropist, of La Crosse, who gave the city a $100,000 manual training school wherein * * * boys can get started in some trade and as the Commercial West well states, 'learn life's great lesson of efficiency,' says the Improvement Bulletin. The Bulletin quotes the Commercial West further as follows:

"There is no question as to what is the greatest evil today in all trades and industries. It is the lack of efficiency. No matter what the work you have in hand, the struggle is always to get good workmanship from the artisan. The prevailing infirmity is inefficiency, and its cure will be found in a thorough training in practical schools. The reason is that industrially we are living in a period when the apprenticeship system has gone out, and the manual training and trade school has not yet arrived to take its place. We have barely made a start in this direction. We must come to the German continuation school idea and the greatest help towards education in applied science are such splendid gifts as Mr.
Hixon has just made to his city."

THE LOBBY
INVESTIGATION

For many decades it has been the practice of the large corporate interests of the country to maintain at Washington paid representatives.
Beginning in a modest way, this custom grew until, with the development of great trusts whose profits were measured by their relations with the government and particularly its legislative branch, these paid representatives have come to exercise a profound and not infrequently controlling influence in congress and public administration at Washington.

This "third house" of congress is known as the lobby. The greater number of lobbyists are shrewd and cunning, and not a few, unscrupulous lawyers. Now, the first evil of the lobby is that it gives special interests—those receiving the privileges or immunities—an undue voice in the affairs of the government. The people are without special representatives at Washington. They have no lobby to look after their particular needs and rights. To be sure there are congressmen and senators, but they do not represent the people exclusively. They must also represent the railroads, the manufacturers, public utilities and private concerns.

In the sense they represent all interests and theoretically, must be fair to each. Thus, the lobby at Washington gives those who maintain it a double representation and that too in legislation of which they are the beneficiaries.

The second evil of the lobby is that it has been allowed to exercise its purposes and choose its methods with a free and practically unrestrained hand. It is under no restrictions whatever in approaching members of congress, or in dealing with them or anybody else with authority or influence, except those that are automatically imposed by prudence in protecting their work from discovery and publicity. With this free rein the lobby has naturally gone to extremes. It has taken chances to secure its ends. At times bribery and other forms of corruption have been resorted to. In fact in recent years and especially when the tariff was up for consideration, it has been one grand and mad scramble for favors, and the means to secure them was a matter of small consideration.

When President Wilson denounced the lobby now seeking to influence tariff revision he struck the first appreciable blow at a very grave and very real evil. Incidentally he struck at the general viciousness of the system as we have outlined it and directly at its specific activities at this moment. The senate investigation came at the psychological moment to be of greatest value and to serve a highly useful end to both the administration of President Wilson and the country at large.

It was eight years ago that La Follette drove the lobbyists out of the Wisconsin state capitol at Madison.
Washington is following the blazed trail.

SENATE FOLLOWS
LA FOLLETTE'S EXAMPLE

"The senate, when it took ten valuable days away from the tariff discussion to catechize each of its members with relation to President Wilson's charges about a lobby, probably meant, in the incisive forc-fulness of the contemporary classics, to 'put the president in a hole,'" says a recent editorial in Collier's. "It turns out that by this act a moral milestone has been set up. Four years ago, when La Follette arose in the senate and announced that since he was a stockholder in a zinc mine he would therefore refrain from voting as to the tariff on zinc, the act was sneered at as a bit of ostentatious self-righteousness. Now, in advance of voting and in advance of considering the tariff, every senator has gone on the stand and sworn, to quote the language of the resolution:

"Whether any senator is financially or professionally interested in the production or manufacture or sale of any article or articles mentioned in said tariff bill, and if so to what extent, or in any other legislation now pending or that has been considered during his term as a senator.
"Whether any senator represents or is connected professionally or otherwise, directly or indirectly, with any person, firm, association, or organization engaged in the manufac-

"Less than ten years ago, at such a time, for example, as when David Graham Phillips wrote his sensational 'Treasure of the Senate,' it was an unhoped-for dream of the most ambitious muck-raker to be able to state the interests and business affiliations of the members of the United States senate. Today all this is on record by their own voluntary act. The next step undoubtedly will be for each senator who has admitted his financial interest in any tariff schedule to refrain from voting on it. Thus there will be established for the senate a code of ethics that has always ruled judges on the bench."

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

An Inventor
A great inventor once there was Who gained renown both far and night.
An airship he invented that Could do most everything but fly.

He then got up a patent gun Designed to make an army scout; He tried it out. The only thing That gun could not do, was to shoot.

He never got discouraged, but He built a dandy new lifeboat.
It proved to have just one defect—The doggoned thing refused to float.

He worked upon a touring car.
It was ten years ere he was done.
It was a beauty. The only thing About it it wouldn't run.

He then got up an eight day clock;
Its pattern was in fact sublime, It did all that it was supposed To do excepting tell the time.

From science then he sadly turned;
He found that science didn't pay.
A stock scheme he invented that Made him a million in a day.

A Use for the Money

"It is hard," Mr. Rockefeller said, "to realize what a million, let alone what a billion is. I overheard two laborers talking about millions behind that hill there the other day."

"If I was a millionaire," said the first laborer, as he threw a shovelful of dirt into a car, "I'd go to the Plaza hotel in New York, I'd hire a front bedroom and I'd tell 'em to call me at 6. And then, when they came the next mornin' at 6 and called me, I'd shout: 'Go away! I don't have to get up! I got money!'"

"After he had shoveled awhile in silence the laborer turned to his companion and said:

"And what would you do, pard, if you was a millionaire?"

"The other laborer straightened up from his task with a sigh.

"I'd have half a foot more lenth put to this shovel to save me poor back," he said."

The Fact

"We want more player pianos in the home. We want more billiard tables, more talking machines, more laughter and good cheer."

The speaker was Jerome S. Mc-Wade of Duluth. He continued:

"I am an implacable foe to the dismal, stern, strict home too common among us here in the middle west."

Mr. McWade sighed and added:

"The fact that there is no place like home makes wanderers of a good many young men."

Gilt Frames

"His mind a blank, eh?" said George Ade of an elderly millionaire who, after a month's absence, had turned up pleading total loss of memory.

"His mind a blank!" Mr. Ade continued. "What a hackneyed old excuse that it! Why don't they get up, these wanderers, something new in the excuse line?"

"They'd be all alike, these excuses, though, in substance. For the average man, in framing an excuse, always does it in guilt."

Sympathetic Grief

"Does your wife often grieve because she threw over a wealthy man in order to marry you?"

"She started to once, but I cured her of it the first rattle out of the box."

"I wish you would tell me how."

"I started right in grieving with her. And I grieved harder and longer than she did."

Rheumatic Blood

Sciatica, Lumbago, and

Rheumatism

You Will Feel Like an Acrobat After Using S. S. S.

There is a host of pills, powders, tablets and what-not for rheumatism, but they all lack the first essential to being a natural medicine. To begin with, rheumatism is simply a name given to designate a variety of pains, and can only be reached by irrigating the entire blood supply with a naturally assimilative antidote. True, the pains may be eased with narcotics or the acids may be neutralized for the time being. But such methods merely temporize and do not even lead to a cure. There is but one standard rheumatic remedy, and is sold in all drug stores under the name of S. S. S.

It contains only pure vegetable elements and is absolutely free of mercury, iodine or potash or arsenic, and has proved a wonder for every form of rheumatism.

The recoveries of all types of rheumatism by the use of S. S. S. is a fine tribute to the natural efficacy of this remarkable medicine, for it is assimilated just as naturally, just as specifically, and just as well ordered as the most acceptable, most palatable and most readily digested food. Do not fail to get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day.
You will be astonished at the results.
If your rheumatism is of such a nature that you would like to consult a great specialist confidentially, write to The Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Co.,

PUBLIC DEBATE

As a reader of the Tribune I desire to say I was very much pleased to read the article published a few days ago from the pen of Mr. Schwelger on your present city government.
I am one of those who believe that if a citizen or officer does anything from a sense of duty, that should be commended or is worthy of praise, the proper time to speak of it is while he is alive, so he can see that he has the approval of some one. Accordingly, when I wrote my book, I put in a prominent place these lines:

"Tis better to send this very day To a living friend a cheap bouquet Than a bushel of roses white or red To be placed on his coffin when he is dead."

Mayor Sorensen is certainly making a commendable effort to better conditions in La Crosse to make it a desirable place for people to raise the best crop on earth, to wit: good boys and girls. Your excellent normal and high schools are an ornament to your city and splendid places to fit young people for the battles of life. But while you have other places many of them whose mission is to unfit them for responsible positions in the world, it behooves your mayor and other officers to see to it that all laws are obeyed and conditions kept in as good shape as possible. I like to see men of ability like Mr. Schweizer of your city and Mr.
Spencer Beebe of Sparta when they see things going on that are contrary to law and detrimental to the public good, to come out and write about it and then sign their names to their articles and let the public know that they want the laws obeyed.

Yours for a better city and county.

DESCRIBES ODD MOTOR ACCIDENT

Pollitt Tells How Great Motorcycle Climbed the Guard Rail and Leaped to the Street Below

Although delayed by a wreck and their own train, like the dog's tail, cut off a little at a time, the Wortham & Allen shows arrived here piecemeal today, but in ample time to be in readiness for the first performances tonight.

The carnival special was stalled by a wreck on the C. M. & St. P. at Delmar, Iowa, about noon yesterday. John A. Pollitt, press agent, and D. J. Lund, manager of one of the shows, who arrived here early today, described the wreck as a bad disaster. A freight had run into the rear end of a work train, and the big freight engine was literally buried under the wreckage of freight cars. They saw ten workmen removed, nine dead and the other literally skinned alive.

The carnival was transferred to the Northwestern, but the two small engines provided were too light, and jerked out the drawbars from a number of cars in this effort to move the heavy train. Manager Wortham's private car and the stateroom car of the show managers were left at Dubuque, but will be in during the afternoon.

Mr. Pollitt was an eye witness of the motorcade accident in which one of the riders was seriously injured at Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The motorcycle got beyond control, and the rider's effort to take the fall he knew was certain, at the bottom of the descent, failed. The huge machine, going approximately ninety miles an hour, lifted itself up the sheer side and flew over the six foot guard rail, clearing the elevated lighting apparatus outside. A man who had climbed up to the guard rail and was peeking over was hit in the forehead and was badly injured.

Blue Bulgar Blouse But-toned About Buddy Beautiful to Be-hold (Written for the United Press) Little frocks for little folks Tiny tots for tots Make big work for fond Mamas And big bills for Dads.

NEW YORK, June 23.—What chance has an old adage against a new fashion? "Children should be seen and not heard," is relegated to the past with the advent of the new noisy color schemes. Little Willie and wee Marie must now be as clamorously Futurist and Bulgarian sartorially as Mama. Quite fitting it is that the Balkan war should affect the "infantry."

The erstwhile virgin whiteness of pique and linen suits and frocks now glow with rainbow tinted embroidery on collars, cuffs and belts whereby lending a gaiety to childish attire that is reflected in childish faces. Irresistible indeed is the maiden tiny when arrayed in a Kate Greenaway frock of rose sprigged lawn, the short waist bound with a rosy silken sash and a cunning poke bonnet of the rosebud lawn topping her Dutch bobber head.

Wear Bulgar Blouse

More to be pitied than censured are Mama and big sister unhappily hipped in the shapeless folds of the long waisted and hip sashed Bulgarian blouse. Small sister, however, carries hers with all the insouciance and grace of tender and slender years. Almost all the best new models for modish little misses have the extreme long waist effect, with sashes or wide soft leather belts catching them below the hip.

A sheer white voile with pleated long waist and kilted skirt has a broad Dutch collar and cuffs of old blue voile embroidered in white. A bright little challie frock polka dotted in scarlet has a long blouse waist fastened down the front with clusters of tiny red buttons. A scarlet sash tops the pleated skirt and the flat collar and cuffs are of baby Irish.

Exquisite hand made "best" dresses are of thin batiste daintily ornamented with hand embroidery, punch work and tiny pin tucks.

Looking as if they had indeed grown on the banks of the Seine, the long waisted coats of black silk or white and navy blue serge hobble their little wearers' knees in a manner chiefly Parisian.

Socks to Extremity

Socks are being carried quite to the extremity—even unto the thirteenth and fourteenth year—almost to the calf age as 'twere. Quite blatantly gay are they with brilliant bands of color round their tops.

Hats of childhood should never turn up, but droop and snugly frame each glowing little face. Many pretty, floppy leghorns wreathed in field flowers or handed with velvet ribbon streaming in long ends and loops artistically crown curly locks. Quarter, however, are the little poke and inverted bowl models that ape the grownups' tiny hats.

Bulgarian blouses have even shouldered their way into the wardrobe of young hopeful. Buddy buttoned into a Bulgar blouse of blue is beautiful to behold. The blouse is laid in box pleats and slightly gathered into a wide white linen belt. An abbreviated sailor collar of white finishes the neck and short beach trousers of blue with an edging of white turns a laddie into a Lilliputian Beau Brummel. The straight little beach pants have ousted the full bloomers from their seat and with Russian blouse suits, sailor suits and Bulgarian blouses they are panning to be worn.

Much more youthful and becoming to the son and heir than the turned up peek crowned hats of last season are the broad brimmed Panamas drooping slightly all around, the flat crown circled with a grosgrain ribbon of pale blue or white or one of white velvet.

Layette Simpler

The layette and baby has grown simpler of line and more sparing of frills and fussiness but the embroidery, handtucks and handstitched hems are lavish in their dainty frippery. Cozy sleeping bags of white elderdown bound in pink or blue satin

By Mrs. Janet McKensie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Everyone likes fried cakes or crinklers. Here's a very superior recipe. Follow directions closely—success is certain.

K C Crinklers or Fried Cakes

Three cups sifted flour; 1/2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1/2 level teaspoonful mace or nutmeg; 1/2 level teaspoonful salt; 2 eggs, beaten light; 1/2 cup granulated sugar; 3 tablespoonfuls melted butter; 1/2 cup skimmed milk.

Sift together, three times, the flour, K C baking powder, mace and salt. Add the sugar, butter and milk to the beaten eggs and stir into the dry ingredients to make a stiff dough. When the girl was born she was a disappointment to the royal couple, for they wished for a boy as their heir. However, one came later, and a future czar was provided for Russia.

LYONS-MILLARD WEDDING

Miss Agnes Lyons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lyons, 2352 State street, was married at 8 o'clock this morning to Archie B. Millard, son of W. N. Millard, 321 North Seventh street. The ceremony was performed in St. Mary's church on South Seventh street by Rev. Robert Condon. Miss Esther Millard, a sister of the bridegroom, and Mark R. Byers, attended the pair.

After the ceremony the bridal party went to the home of the bride, where an elaborate wedding breakfast was served. Only immediate friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Millard were present at the breakfast.

The bride was dressed in white crepe de chine with Irish point lace trimming. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

After the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Millard left for a week's honeymoon trip.

VINCENT-VOIGT

The marriage of Miss Agnes Louise Vincent, daughter of Mrs. James Vincent, and Edward F. Voigt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Voigt, took place Saturday evening at the home of the bride, 1024 Cass street. Rev. Henry Faville of the First Congregational church performed the ceremony. Only relatives witnessed the ceremony which was extremely simple, the bride being unattended.

From 8 to 10 a reception was held, when forty intimate friends of the bride were entertained. A large cut glass bowl filled with bride's roses, resting on a mirror upon a handsome epergne cloth of elmy lace wreathed in smilax, beautified the serving table. A graceful arrangement of streamers and lover's knots of white satin ribbon also adorned the table. Smilax and vases of flowers graced the other rooms.

The ladies presiding at the coffee urn and serving the salad were Mesdames F. G. Cowles, J. L. Callahan and W. E. Bannen and Miss Martha Olson. Ice cream was served by Mrs. F. E. Davis, assisted by a bevy of young women. A pleasing feature of the evening was a number of vocal solos by Mr. Eugene Luening.

The bride was charming in a handsome gown of ivory white duchesse satin, a scarf of beautiful liere lace veiling the back in tunic fashion to the length of the train and draping the bodice in front with ornaments of pearl. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and ferns.

The out of town guests were Miss Martha Olson of Winona, and Miss Florence Newell of Monticello, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Voigt left immediately after the reception in their automobile to spend their honeymoon at Rice Lake, where they will occupy the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Voigt for at least a month.

LAWN SOCIABLE

There will be an ice cream sociable held Tuesday afternoon and evening at the home of Mrs. K. W. Shepards, 225 South Sixth street. Supper served from 5 to 8. European plan.

Real Heroism.

To live well in the quiet routine of life; to fill a little space because God wills it; to go on cheerfully with a petty round of little duties, little avocations; to smile for the joys of others when the heart is aching—who does this, his works will follow him. He may not be a hero to the world, but he is one of God's heroes.—Dean Farrar.

Eggs Long Used as Food.

Just how long people have been eating eggs is not known, certainly long before breakfasts were "invented" or made a custom. There is no doubt mankind in a barbaric state had learned of the use of certain eggs as a food.

We All Feel That Way.

To Kill Odor of Onion.

To kill the odor of onions on the breath eat lemon afterward or drink strong lemonade. Many persons who never eat onions in any other form cannot very well avoid them in some salads which would taste exceedingly flat without this vegetable.

Catty.

"My husband," she said, "always wants me to look my best, no matter what the cost." "Well," her friend replied, "one can hardly blame him for feeling as he does."—Chicago Record-Herald

Enjoy Picnic at

Myrick Park

A most enjoyable event was staged by the Young People's league of the West Avenue Methodist church at Myrick park on Saturday. A regular dinner was served. Lemonade was the strongest liquid indulged in but judging from the demands made for same, it could not have been of the circus variety. The enthusiastic shouts of "lemmo, lemmo" were quieted only by the excitement occasioned by the baseball game in which Bartz's class succeeded in defeating, without effort, the teachers and officers. The results of the athletic program are given as follows:

POWERS UNITE TO PREVENT A WAR

Bring Pressure to Bear on Former Allies to Keep Balkan Peace

WOULD FORCE THEM TO SUBMIT

Wire Them They Must Abide by Arbitration of the Czar of Russia

LONDON, June 2.—The great powers today "at the eleventh hour" engaged in the liveliest of telegraphic exchanges to avert fresh war in the Balkans. Pressure was brought to bear on all of the allies, Serbia, Bulgaria, Montenegro and Greece, to force them to abide by the arbitration of the czar and the hope was semi-annually expressed at the foreign office that the hostilities would be prevented.

It has been asserted in certain quarters that Austria-Hungary, in the zeal of her anti-Slav sentiment, has fomented the disagreement among the allies, secretly feeding the flame of resentment of each against the others, with a desire to make impossible anything like a powerful Slav coalition.

MRS. E. FLORINA DIES AT HOSPITAL

Mrs. Ellen Florina, 907 Jackson street, died at a local hospital yesterday morning at 7 o'clock after a short illness. The packet "Morning Star" from Davenport went through the wagon bridge this morning on its regular run to St. Paul.

JUDGE ON THE BENCH

SAND LOT GAME BARS BRINDLEY FROM PARTICIPATION IN ANNUAL BOUT AT THE COUNTY PICNIC

Judge Brindley will be a bench manager this year when his team of county officials plays the supervisors' nine at the annual county picnic which will be held Wednesday at Dressen park. The occasion of the judge's decision dates back a week or so ago when the county magistrate got into a sand lot game with his son and the latter's pals. The judge is still nursing two or three charley-horses.

Even without his services in the field, the officials are counting upon victory. They have much younger blood in their lineup this year, and are confident they will wipe out the stain of last year's defeat. George Selund, deputy register of deeds, and County Clerk Bert Jolivet are expected to be the bright particular stars of the officials' lineup, with Sheriff John Webber a close second. Selund is said to be lightning on the bases, and Jolivet is touted as a demon with the war club.

GARDEN ON BLUFF DOES BIG BUSINESS

Hot summer afternoons, especially Sundays, are bringing the call of the open to many La Crosse people with the consequence that the Edelweiss garden in Ebner's coulee, just around the shoulder of Grand bluff swarms daily with persons who have fled the heat of the city. The garden is tucked up on the side of the bluff, nearly at the end of the coulee, and it overlooks one of the most beautiful views near La Crosse. On either side are wooded bluffs, the trees filled with song birds. A more pleasing spot on a hot day would be hard to imagine. Evening parties at the Edelweiss are of frequent occurrence.

WOMAN ALLEGED ROBBER

A newsboy furnished the police with the number of the auto and it was upon this information that Mrs. Brunner was arrested.

SENATORS FIND CONDITIONS IN WEST VA. BAD AS MINERS HAD PAINTED THEM

Senator Martine of New Jersey on investigating tour in West Virginia coal mining districts.

U. S. senators who have been investigating conditions in the West Virginia coal fields have found them about as bad as had been painted by the miners. In contrast to the wealth and luxury which surrounds the operators is the misery and want in the homes of their employees.

In the accompanying picture Senator Martine of New Jersey, who is a member of the senate committee, is seen leaving a miner's cabin in the Cabin Creek strike zone where he and other senators went to secure first hand information regarding the strike situation.

We are about to set them free by removing the trammels of the protective tariff. Ever since the civil war they have waited for this emancipation and for the free opportunities it will bring with it. It has been reserved for us to give it to them. Some fell in love, indeed, with the stolid security of their dependence upon the Government; some took advantage of the shelter of the nursery to set up a mimic mastery of their own within its walls. Now both the tonic and the discipline of liberty and maturity are to ensue. There will be some readjustments of purpose and point of view. There will follow a period of expansion and new enterprise, freshly conceived. It is for us to determine now whether it shall be rapid and facile and of easy accomplishment. This it cannot be unless the resourceful business men who are to deal with the new circumstances are to have at hand and ready for use the instrumentalities and conveniences of free enterprise which independent men need when acting on their own initiative.

Must Supply Needs

It is not enough to strike the shackles from business. The duty of statesmanship is not negative merely. It is constructive also. We must show that we understand what business needs and that we know how to supply it. No man, however casual and superficial his observation of the conditions now prevailing in the country, can fail to see that one of the chief things business needs now, and will need increasingly as it gains in scope and vigor in the years immediately ahead of us, is the proper means by which readily to vitalize its credit, corporate and individual, and its origination brains. What will it profit us to be free if we are not to have the best and most accessible instrumentalities of commerce and enterprise? What will it profit us to be quit of one kind of monopoly if we are to remain in the grip of another and more effective kind? How are we to gain and keep the confidence of the business community unless we show that we know how both to aid and to protect it? What shall we say if we make fresh enterprise necessary and also make it very difficult by leaving as we found it? The tyrannies of business, big and little, lie within the field of credit. We know that. Shall we not act upon the knowledge? Do we not know how to act upon it? If a man can not make his assets available at pleasure, his assets of capacity and character and resource, what satisfaction is it to him to see opportunity beckoning to him on every hand, when others have the keys of credit in their pockets and treat them as all but their own private possession? It is perfectly clear that it is our duty to supply the new banking and currency system the country needs, and that it will immediately need it more than ever.

The only question is, when shall we supply it—now, or later, after the demands shall have become reproaches that we were so dull and so slow? Shall we hasten to change the tariff laws and then be laggards about making it possible and easy for the country to take advantage of the change? There can be only one answer to that question. We must act now, at whatever sacrifice to ourselves. It is a duty which the circumstances forbid us to postpone. I should be recreant to my deepest convictions of public obligation did I not press it upon you with solemn and urgent insistence.

The principles upon which we should act are also clear. The country has sought and seen its path in this matter within the last few years—sees it more clearly now than it ever saw it before—much clearly than when the last legislative proposals on the subject were made. We must have a currency, not rigid as now, but readily, elastically responsive to sound credit, the expanding and contracting credits of everyday transactions, the normal ebb and flow of personal and corporate dealings. Our banking laws must mobilize reserves; must not permit the concentration anywhere in a few hands of the monetary resources of the country; their use for speculative purposes in such volume as to hinder or impede or stand in the way of other more legitimate, more fruitful ones. And the control of the system of banking and of issue which our new laws are to set up must be public, not private, must be vested in the government itself, so that the banks may be the instruments, not the masters, of business and of individual enterprise and initiative.

The committees of the congress to which legislation of this character is referred have devoted careful and dispassionate study to the means of accomplishing these objects. They have honored me by consulting me. They are ready to suggest action. I have come to you, as the head of the government and the responsible leader of the party in power, to urge action now, while there is time to serve the country deliberately and as we should, in a clear air of common counsel. I appeal to you with a deep conviction of duty. I believe that you share this conviction. I therefore appeal to you with confidence. I am at your service without reserve to play my part in any way you may call upon me to play it in this great enterprise of existent reform which it will dignify and distinguish us to perform and discredit us to neglect.

BOY SHOTS UP COURT

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The wildest excitement was created in criminal court No. 1 here late this afternoon when an 18 year old boy, Raymond Stuart, a defendant before Justice Stafford, suddenly whipped a revolver out of his pocket and started shooting at random in the crowd about him. Three shots were discharged before the boy could be disarmed. No one was injured.

SYRACUSE WINS AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Dope Upset when Cornell Finishes Second; Wisconsin Lands Fourth

Varsity Eight-Oared Race
Syracuse, first; time 19:28 3-5. Cornell second; time, 19:31. Washington third; time 19:33. Wisconsin fourth; time 19:36. Columbia, fifth; time 19:38 1-5. Pennsylvania sixth; time 20:11 1-5.

HIGHLANDS, N. J., June 23.—Syracuse first; Cornell, second, Washington, third.

There you have the result of the great intercollegiate boat race technically described on your program as the university eight oared shells at four miles.

There, too, you have in a few words, one of the biggest surprises of the college athletic year. At a moment when the long lean racing shells manned by the brawny boys of Cornell and Columbia were lashed down the river bow to bow, and the race seemed between these two alone, the lads from Syracuse suddenly commenced a mighty pull that brought a mad yell of exultation from the spectators along the river banks.

Soon the Syracuse crew was on even terms with the flying twain and then in the last few hundred yards of the course they slipped out ahead and on to victory. Cornell hung to the last, but the Columbia men, spent and exhausted, slipped away.

Explains Defeat

Before the Cornell and Columbia crews take to the water for the eight-oared race in the regatta at Poughkeepsie next year, one of the last words from the coaches will be for the oarsmen to remember there are six crews in the event and that they are not rowing a match race. In "explaining away" the defeat of Cornell at the hands of Syracuse in the driving finish Saturday, it was declared today that the intense rivalry existing between the Ithacans and Columbia since 1907, was responsible. In almost every race in the past few years Columbia and Cornell have started battling as though they were the only crews in the race. They did this Saturday. The Columbia worked itself out in the first three miles, and, burned up by the gruelling pace set by the New York eight, Cornell could not stave off Syracuse when challenged in the last mile.

OFFICIALS ATTEND A BARN RAISING

County Treasurer William Garbers, County Clerk Jolivet, Register of Deeds Andrew Thompson and his assistant George Selund motored to the Lud Christopherson farm in Burns Coulee, town of Bangor, last Saturday afternoon, where they assisted in a "barn raising." A large number of farmers were present to assist at the raising and the picnic which was a part of the ceremony. The county officials were especially active in the picnic part of the program. The barn is a large 36 by 80 foot structure, one of the most modern of its kind in La Crosse county.

RAIN WORTH MILLIONS

WEATHER SAVES BIG CROP FROM INTENSE HEAT OF INDIANA DROUGHT

INDIANAPOLIS, June 23.—Tens of millions of dollars was the value placed by experts today on the weather of the last two days that completely changed the complexion of the Indiana grain crop situation. Corn, hay, wheat and oats which were literally burning up from continued drought were saved by the steady downpour.

GEORGE FISHER HAS PARALYTIC STROKE

George Fisher, 52 years of age, 728 Avon street, is lying unconscious at his home from a stroke of paralysis which he received at 6:00 o'clock last night. Mr. Fisher had been confined to his home for the past several months with an illness, but was not suffering at the time of the stroke. Physicians who are attending him say that he will recover, but that he will be an invalid.

SUMMITS WIN IN FIFTEEN FRAMES

Defeat the Clothiers When Defense Goes to Pieces in the Fifteenth Inning

In the fastest and snappiest fifteen innings of baseball that have been staged in the City league this season, the Summits yesterday defeated the Clothiers at League park. Faubert and Krause, twirlers for the Summits and the Clothiers respectively, both went the whole route. Errors back of Krause lost the game for him. He had a shade in the delivery department on Faubert, although neither hurler had a walk away.

The Summits scored in the first and the Clothiers tied it up in the fourth. From then on the game was airtight until the Clothiers began to mess things up in the fifteenth and Williams' hit scored Horn.

The boots began after Horn had hit to right. Beranek bunted and Krause fumbled it long enough to let Beranek get to first. Then Kline dropped a pop-up fly to short, filling the bases. Williams clouted an easy one to left field, but Meiner, lost it in the sun and Horn came over the pan.

Manager Nick Bartl for the Clothiers was ordered off the field by Umpire Hunt when he urged Hunt to call balks on the pitchers. Score:

Summits 10000000000001—12 12 2 Clothiers 00010000000000—1 13 4

With the same breath they lay the progressives for delaying waterpower development and refuse to accept the most lenient provision the progressives can conscientiously grant. It was recalled in recent debate in the senate that in 1909 the waterpower interests endeavored to secure legislation that would grant away the last vestige of state ownership in waterpowers and refused any other legislation, preferring to have development tied up; that in 1911 a law was passed against their strenuous opposition; that they carried it to the supreme court and succeeded in having it declared unconstitutional; that the recent decision of the United States supreme court in the Michigan-Dunbar case ran contrary to the decision of the Wisconsin court and upheld the contention of the framers of the 1911 law in important particulars; that at the special session of 1912, the waterpower interests again defeated a bill that would have permitted development, because it contained a repeal clause and would not have surrendered irretrievably the rights many able lawyers and members of the legislature hope and believe still vests in the people of the state; and that they now, on the plea of immediate developments, insist upon making certain of obtaining beyond recall valuable vested rights upon which they may exact from the people toll for all future time.

While insisting upon this in the senate, these same interests have temporarily and probably will finally defeat in the assembly the constitutional amendment, which passed the senate 20 to 7, giving the state the right to purchase the waterpowers by condemnation. This subsequent right they hold out as one of the protections the people will have against extortions by privately owned waterpowers, but at the same time they exert every effort to defeat the possibility of the people having the opportunity to vote that right into the constitution. The people adopted such an amendment in 1910, but by error of the senate clerk in 1909, the resolution was passed without a roll call and was declared void by the attorney general. The water power people are now bending every effort to prevent another submission of the amendment.

BODY FOUND IN RIVER NOT DAHLIN

That the body found floating in the Mississippi river near St. Paul Friday and believed to be that of John Dahlin, formerly of this city, was not that of the La Crosse man, is the information contained in a letter from Mrs. Dahlin by Albert G. Schultz, proprietor of the Hotel Burlington, today. Mr. and Mrs. Dahlin stayed at the Burlington while living in La Crosse, where Mr. Dahlin was employed at the Heileman brewery.

Mrs. Dahlin wrote that Dahlin has disappeared but that she is positive that the body found in the river at St. Paul is not that of her husband. Mr. and Mrs. Dahlin left here for St. Paul a little more than a week ago and Mrs. Dahlin has not seen her husband since arriving in that city. She has gone to her home in Fredericks, Wis. She wrote to inquire if he had shown up in La Crosse.

The police were notified here but have not seen the missing man.

EMPLOYERS BREAK STRIKE AGREEMENT

CHICAGO, June 23.—Police stations in the suburbs today reported a break in the ranks of the building construction employers' association, who ordered a lockout of 25,000 union building workers last Thursday. Contractors on buildings in the suburbs today decided to disregard the order of the executive committee and permitted their men to go back to work, according to the police. Patrolmen who had been stationed near some of the buildings under construction were withdrawn.

VICE MBAYOR WOULD SUCCEED GAYNOR

COL. A. L. KLINE

New York has just chosen a vice mayor who would succeed Mayor William J. Gaynor were he incapacitated. Colonel Ardolph L. Kline, long a member of the board of aldermen, has ascended to that position by virtue of the resignation of John Purroy Mitchel, who has become collector of customs.

Colonel Kline thus holds the second official position in a city which contains more people than any one of a half dozen nations of Europe which have kings and queens and royal families and armies and navies and orders of nobility. For the city now has a population of more than 5,000,000 and its wealth is perhaps greater than that of a half dozen small kingdoms combined.

New York Stocks
NEW YORK, June 23.—The stock market opened active and strong. 11 a. m.—The market continued strong to the end of the first hour. Some of the active issues showed gains of two or more points. The rise occurred without any violent activity but traders were of the opinion that the movement had spent its force toward the end of the hour and decreases were looked for. It was thought likely that an opinion in the Union Pacific segregation matter might be handed down later in the day. Noon.—The market was quiet. 2 p. m.—The market was dull with a sagging tendency during the early afternoon. The stock market closed dull and heavy.

SENATORS DOUBLE FROM THE YANKS

4 to 1 and 6 to 0 Are the Scores of Saturday Games in Wash- ington

WIND STORM STOPS CARDINALS

Near-Tornado Ends Cub- Cardinal Battle Score- less in the Third Inning

Washington 4-6; New York 1-0
WASHINGTON, June 23.—The Senators returned the compliment handed them Friday and took two from the Yankees Saturday afternoon by the scores of 4 to 1 and 6 to 0 respectively. Mullin held the visitors safely in the first game and Walter Johnson handed out two stingy singles in the second. The scores: First game— R H E
New York ..... 000001000—1 6 1 Washington ..... 310000000—4 7 2 Batteries: Fisher and Sweeney; Mullin and Henry.
Second game— R H E
Washington ..... 40010001x—6 8 1 Batteries: Keating, Clark and Sweeney; Johnson and Ainsmith.
Boston 5; Philadelphia 4
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 23.—After tying the score in the eighth by driving the veteran, Eddie Plank, from the box with five hits, the Red Sox came back in the final round and hung up the necessary single run to bend to win the game. Score: R H E Boston ..... 100010021—5 13 1
Batteries: Leonard, Bedient, Hall and Carrigan; Nunamaker; Houck, Plank, Bender and Schang.

Cleveland 7; Detroit 6
CLEVELAND, O., June 23.—In a real old fashioned swatfest in which three triples and a homer figured conspicuously, the Naps took the first game of the series from the Tigers here Saturday by a score of 7 to 6. Detroit used three pitchers and Cleveland two. Score: R H E Detroit ..... 600000000—6 5 0 Cleveland ..... 400003000—7 10 1 Batteries: Dauss, Hall, Lake and Stange; McKee; Falkenberg, Mitchell and Carisch.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Brooklyn 2; New York
NEW YORK, June 23.—It was too much Nap Rucker and too little Marquard, Damaree and Crandall on the Polo grounds Saturday afternoon and Brooklyn defeated the Giants, 2 to 0. A slashing single by Daubert, which bounced off Marquard's bare hand while Stengel was on third and Wheat was on first, was enough for Brooklyn to win. The Dodgers scored again in the ninth on bunched hits. Each team played errorless ball. Score: R H E Brooklyn ..... 000100002—2 8 0
New York ..... 000000000—0 4 0 Batteries: Rucker and Miller; Marquard, Damaree and Meyers.

Cincinnati 8; Pittsburgh 6

CINCINNATI, O., June 23.—In a weird contest in which errors were responsible for many tallies, despite free hitting, the Reds on Saturday beat the Pirates, 8 to 6. Suggs and Camnitz were hammered from the box. Viox made four hits and also a costly muff in the eighth inning. Score: R H E Pittsburgh ..... 100000410—6 12 3 Cincinnati ..... 00000104x—8 7 2 Batteries: Camnitz, Robinson and Coleman; Suggs, Harter, Brown and Clarke.

Philadelphia 5-5; Boston 4-2

BOSTON, Mass., June 23.—Before one of the largest crowds ever seen on the South End grounds the Phils took both games of a double header from the Braves Saturday afternoon. The first game was taken by a ninth inning rally, in which Rudolph "blew up" and enabled the visitors to turn an apparent shut-out into a 5 to 4 victory. Scores: First game— R H E Philadelphia ..... 000000005—5 10 2
Batteries: Rixey, Chalmers, Mayer and Doolin; Killifer; Rudolph, Perdue and Rariden.

Second game— R H E

Boston ..... 000100010—2 11 2 Batteries: Moore, Mayer and Killifer; Perdue, James and Rariden, Whaling.

St. Louis Game Stopped

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 23.—A terrific windstorm struck the Cardinal ball park at the beginning of the third inning Saturday afternoon and forced the suspension of hostilities with the Cubs, with neither side registered in the score column. Frightened fans fled to cover, fearing a tornado.

FLAGSHIP WINS TROPHY

CHICAGO, June 23.—The trophy for the Chicago Yacht Club's annual triangular race to Michigan City, St. Joseph, Mich., and return, was awarded today to the Polarix, flagship of the yacht. The big yawl, owned by Commodore James O. Heyworth, finished second on the last leg of the race behind the Valmore, Walden W. Shaw's schooner, but its two victories on the first two days of the race won the cup.

POLO STARTS TOMORROW

CHICAGO, June 23.—Play in the mid-western polo-championship games will start tomorrow at the Onwentia club. The Kansas City Country club team, three times champions, will oppose the Cincinnati team in the first match.

ATHLETES TROUCE PRAIRIE DU CHIEN

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., June 23.—(Special.)—"Moppy" Anderson the W. B. U. Athletes' star twirler was in his best form Sunday and allowed Prairie but two widely scattered hits and setting down twelve men on strikes. Both his were gotten by Bush, Prairie's second baseman. Not a Prairie du Chien man reached second base after the second inning. Smith, Prairie du Chien's imported twirler from Davenport, was hit hard, 12 hits including three doubles being secured off him and he was in bad in nearly every inning. The W. B. U. Athletes scored three runs right in the first inning, enough to win the game. Fuchsel's wonderful one-handed catch of a low line drive was the real feature of the afternoon.

The Athletes' new first baseman, R. Hackner, and their new shortstop, "Bobbie" Roeder, played in fine form and helped make the infield a veritable stone wall, besides adding in the scoring. The score: R H E
